

Time for a change

October is here and the days are drawing in. I can hardly believe I've now been in this role for just over a year. I've loved my time as Norfolk Constabulary's Operation Randall Rural Crime PC and met some wonderful people along the way. Anyway, it's time for a change. When I say "a change", it's not a massive change. I'm still working in the same office with the same people. In actual fact, I've only moved one desk to the left and I continue to work under the Community Safety Neighbourhood Policing team. My successor is PC1765 Chris Shelley. Chris was formally based at Diss police station as a response officer, but he comes from a rural background after spending 2 years at Easton College in agriculture followed by 10 years in the farming industry. Chris is also a wildlife crime officer and like myself has a real passion for tackling rural crime. I'll be working closely with Chris over the coming months as he gets settled in. I'd like to welcome Chris to the team and wish him all the best in his new role and know he will do you all proud. Chris has formally started in his new role today and is looking forward to getting out into the community and taking part in our Engagement events once the current situation around COVID has eased.

I have added Chris's details to the newsletter, so please feel free to contact either of us if you have any questions and we will do our best to assist. Please remember, you are our eyes and ears in the rural community and we welcome any information that can assist us with tackling rural crime.
